

Harvest Tec is pleased to announce Scott Wangsgard as our new Technical Sales Specialist. Scott comes to us with over twenty years of hands-on experience in the hay and forage markets. His most recent assignment was with CNH where he was the New Holland Commercial Hay Product Sales Specialist for the Western U.S. Sales Region.

Scott is a graduate of Utah State University where he earned his Bachelor of Science degree and Masters of Science degree in Agriculture Systems of Technology. While at Utah State, Scott also taught undergraduate courses in agricultural machinery technology, supervised lab experience and hands on training, served as an undergraduate academic advisor, and served as an advisor to the Agriculture Technology Club at Utah State.

Scott will be focusing his time on working with Hay and Alfalfa Growers in the Western U.S. region along with the Harvest Tec Dealer network in promoting and demonstrating the industry leading Harvest Tec products for profitable farming. These include our; Dew Simulator for re-moisturizing the alfalfa windrow, patented moisture sensor technology and our applicator and hay preservative products.